

EDA Apprenticeship Service for Members & Affiliated Members

In partnership with EDA Apprenticeships Plus

The Electrical Distributors' Association (EDA) is the trade association for electrical wholesalers in the UK. It has been representing their interests since 1914 and today has over 240 member companies operating from 1,900 branches around the UK. It also has over 90 affiliated members who are leading suppliers of products and services to the wholesaler members.

One of the EDA's top priorities is to promote a culture of education and training amongst its members and affiliates members. It believes in life-long learning and offers a wide range of training opportunities from the day of joining the industry to the day of retirement (and beyond).

The EDA works in partnership with an external company called EDA Apprenticeships Plus to deliver its apprenticeship programmes.

This course information sheet describes just one of the apprenticeships offered by EDA Apprenticeships Plus. You can find out more on our website.

Level 3 Team Leader (England only)

COURSE DESCRIPTION

A Team leader is a first line management role, with operational and project responsibilities or responsibility for managing a team to deliver a clearly defined outcome. They provide direction, instruction and guidance to ensure the achievement of set goals. Within different wholesalers and manufacturers, specific responsibilities will vary, but the knowledge, skills and behaviours needed will be the same whatever the role or the organisation.

Key responsibilities are likely to include supporting, managing and developing team members, managing projects, planning and monitoring workloads and resources, delivering operational plans, resolving problems, and building relationships internally and externally.

Typical job titles could include Assistant Branch Manager, Supervisor, Team leader, Project officer, Assistant Profit Centre Manager, Shift supervisor, and Shift manager. This is a good "stepping-stone" apprenticeship for employees who are progressing their career and taking on/have taken on greater management responsibility.

EMPLOYER COMMITMENT

Managers must be prepared to provide the apprentice with the opportunity to carry out work which will enable them to produce evidence towards their apprenticeship. Managers must ensure that the apprentice has enough time to complete their learning within working hours. Managers must regularly review the apprentice's progress with the Training Provider, identifying additional activities to stretch and challenge the apprentice and supporting the resolution of any difficulties. Managers should also be prepared to take on a mentoring role with the apprentice, passing on skills, knowledge and experience to help the apprentice develop into a fully-fledged member of the team.

Apprenticeship training can help your business attract talent and improve professional skills. From training new recruits through to post-graduate study, apprenticeships boost the skills of the workforce and help business productivity.
